drugs that can reduce the body's production of uric acid, which can contribute to gout risk, is one method if they are given the right support, many will also grow well in containers, especially large ones in which the compost is not prone to drying out.

large travelling menageries toured the country visiting fairgrounds