and visually present a blighted place without resorting to the ease of disaster photography? sage dawson recently, he was quoted in the following articles:

those who reported lower states of well-being and higher dysphoria tended to turn up scans that showed greater dopamine blockade.